

INVITATION

PhD defense "Reward Value Drives Visual Selective Attention" and Mini-symposium on "Attention, Learning and Reward"

February 23, 2017, Amsterdam

PhD defense: "For What It's Worth: Reward Value Drives Visual Selective Attention" by Michel Failing

Time: 11.45 – 12:45

Place: Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam (Aula, main building)

Mini-symposium: "Attention, Learning and Reward"

Time: 15.00 – 17:30

Place: Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam (MF-G6-13: medical faculty, G-Wing, 6th floor, room 13)

Detailed program of mini-symposium

- | | | |
|---------------|---|--|
| 15.00 – 15.05 | - | Introduction |
| 15.05 – 15.30 | - | Leonardo Chelazzi , University of Verona, Italy
Statistical Learning of Target Selection and Distractor Filtering |
| 15.30 – 15.55 | - | Sara Jahfari , Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, Netherlands
On the role of learning in the future deployment of attention, and the regulation of uncertain choices: a computational approach |
| 15.55 – 16.20 | - | Jan Engelmann , Universiteit van Amsterdam, Netherlands
How rewards and punishments guide goal-directed cognition and choice |
| 16.20 – 16.35 | - | Break |
| 16.35 – 17.00 | - | Jane Raymond , University of Birmingham, UK
Competition among motivational states drives visual attention |
| 17.00 – 17.25 | - | Jan Theeuwes , Vrije Universiteit van Amsterdam, Netherlands
Reward shapes visual attention |

Directions

- (1) PhD defense
- (2) Mini-symposium

MAP VU CAMPUS & VU MEDICAL CENTRE

A 10

